

OCVC About Us/FAQ

Who Will I Be Working With?

OCVC is the brainchild of Emily Renner and Vaughn Buffalo, two corporate lawyers who became friends in 2007 when they met in a cab in New York City. They saw the need to educate small business owners about the structure and major documents they will need in their business and thus OCVC was born.

What's With the Name?

OCVC stands for the 4 most important documents a small business should have, or at least consider:

O-Operating Agreement
C-Customer Agreement
V-Vendor Agreement
C-Confidentiality Agreement

What Services Does OCVC Provide?

- Workshops: Focused on each of the 4 core documents (Operating Agreement, Customer Agreement, Vendor Agreement, Confidentiality Agreement) so you can participate in the creation of those documents with knowledge and understanding
- 1 on 1 Services: To teach individuals about the basic agreements that may be needed for their business

In every case, our desired outcome is to create a well-informed entrepreneur ready to intelligently engage an attorney for their business

Who Benefits from OCVC?

OCVC loves to work with emerging and starting businesses especially those that don't have funds to receive quality education about the fundamentals of starting their own business and the major documents to support the growth of the business.

How Much Will This Cost Me?

Nothing! We are here to create well informed legal consumers. Our workshops are always free.
